

Assembly session begins today, may be stormy

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Belagavi, 28 June

Opposition BJP and JDS are set to confront the Congress government on a host of issues, including farmers' suicide, as the monsoon session of Karnataka legislature begins here tomorrow. Giving an indication of the shape of things to come, BJP senior leader BS Yeddyurappa, former Chief Minister Jagadish Shettar and other state leaders were arrested today as they tried to stage a march here defying prohibitory orders against government over various issues, including payment of dues by sugar mills to sugarcane growers. Ahead of the session, Legislative Assembly Speaker Kagodu Thimmappa also said government should work towards implementing the schemes they have announced, or else it will be of "no use". "If government brings out any scheme, they should work towards implementing it, if they don't work towards it, it will be a waste," said Thimmappa, whose blunt remarks critical of the government have often put it in an embarrassing spot. "Deliver on schemes you announce... or else what is the use?" he said. Doing away with the normal practice of holding only winter session here, the state government has this time decided to hold the first half of monsoon session in Belagavi district, bordering Maharashtra, in north Karnataka. The legislature session is being held here for the last several years to reassert Karnataka's position that Belagavi is part of the state as neighbouring Maharashtra has been laying claims over it in the decades old border dispute. The sittings of Assembly and Council will be held from June 29 to July 10 in Belagavi and from July 13 to July 24 in Bengaluru. The session is being held primarily to pass the appropriation bill as the Siddaramaiah government had sought a vote on account for four months till July 31. Huge arrears to sugarcane growers, a major problem for cane growers in Belagavi district which is considered a sugar bowl of the state, and other issues concerning farmers are expected to be the focus of attention at the session. JD(S) lead by its leader H D Kumaraswamy is already on a protest march from Hubballi to Belagavi on farmers' issues. Both BJP and JDS, whose leaders have been cosying up to each other in recent weeks, are expected to make a coordinated attack on the government. According to sources, parties at Business Advisory Committee meeting tomorrow are likely to press for curtailing the session in the wake of polls to civic body, Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike on July 28.

'Jugaad-a-thon' sees former winners return for talents

ANITA BABU
Bengaluru, 28 June

As GE Healthcare held the second edition of its annual hackathon, 'Jugaad-a-thon' on its campus in Bengaluru this weekend, and the last year's winners were back on the campus as start-ups in search of talents. Babysteps and Saans weren't start-ups when they participated in the Jugaad-a-thon last year. The term jugaad means an innovative fix or a simple work-around, and the word originated from Hindi and Urdu. Both had won accolades for their innovation in the early development stages and post-natal baby care, respectively. Babysteps looks at stages of child development and makes parents aware of the normal development stages of a baby as it grows up. The concept, developed by Neha Kumar, an Assistant Professor in Georgia Tech, Atlanta, and Dr Rajesh Chandwani, a paediatrician, is an assistant professor at IIM-Ahmedabad, has taken the shape of an android app and is in the beta stages of development. The app helps parents track stages in the growth of their baby and reminds them of vaccinations in a timely manner. Additionally, the app performs like a baby book where parents can store photos, videos of their child in its different growth stages. This can also act as a personal record book while consulting a clinician. Similarly, Saans, the other winner of 'Jugaad-a-thon' in 2014, has developed a portable device that works without electricity to produce a pressurised environment that helps a baby's lungs to be kept open to allow air in and ease breathing.

International biz scholars look at India for inputs

BS REPORTERS
Bengaluru, 28 June

In India, most academic institutions are focused on knowledge dissemination and not knowledge creation, unlike developed countries. In West, the primary job of the academia is to create knowledge, get papers published and then teach the knowledge thus gained, in the classrooms which help the learners get in sync with the latest developments in business, technology or in any other field, says experts. And this is more evident in a discipline like 'International Business' because of its dynamic nature. But things may change fast with the Academy of International Business (AIB), a global association of scholars and specialists in the field of international business deciding to hold its international conference in India for the first time, in Bengaluru, thanks to the efforts of some members of AIB who are of Indian origin.

Bengaluru to organise a two-day workshop on how to improve the quality of papers. "This helped people learn how to write quality papers so that they would be of good quality and be accepted," said Kundu, also a professor at College of Business, Management and International Business, Florida International University. Papers published by majority of the researchers and academics who attended the workshop were accepted at the four-day conference, 'Global Networks: Organizations and People', that kicked off on Saturday. "Writing paper is an art; a lot depend on how one can make it presentable," adds Kundu. Though the AIB was established in 1959, in its 56-year history, the global body is holding its first international conference in India, though it had already organised one in China in 2006 and in Brazil in 2010.

certainly will figure high on their minds," said Nakiye Boyacioglu, president, AIB, who hails from Turkey. Kiran Mazumdar Shaw, CMD, Biocon, was presented the 2015 AIB Fellows Executive of the Year Award at the conference. AIB has around 3,351 members who are spread across 87 countries. Around 860 participants from around 50 countries are attending the AIB 2015 conference in Bengaluru. "This has been our aspiration to bring the AIB conference to India, especially to showcase the global academia and researchers the progress the country has made. So that, when they go back, publish papers and impart the knowledge, India
