

Lease management as-a-Service

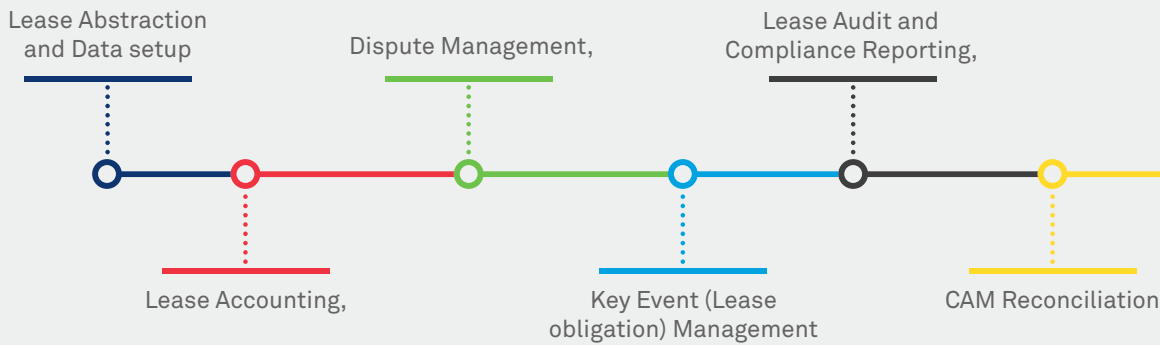

Leased real estate, and especially, equipment lease is a growing category of spend that does not garner the same attention as other business processes in most companies.

The recent FASB and IASB lease accounting changes impact the way an accounting department will cooperate with real-estate, procurement, treasury and other business functions. The lease management process could become error-prone without the right design, governance and controls in place.

Wipro is a one-stop-shop for transformation and process reengineering, analytics and digital technology as well as back-office processing (lease administration and accounting) including:
